PC3 POSTPONES ITS FIRST AUSTRALIAN TOUR IN FIVE YEARS

A week after announcing it, the Paul Colman Trio (PC3) has postponed its upcoming Australian tour due to "unforeseeable circumstances".

Lead singer Paul Colman says the trio is "incredibly disappointed" to be unable to perform in Australia at this time.

"We've been looking forward so much to playing together again," Paul says.

"I want everyone to know that we will come back as soon as we can."

PC3, which disbanded in 2004, was supposed to launch its first reunion tour in October with performances in 13 cities including a headline show at Sydney's Black Stump festival.

Black Stump organisers say this year's festival, to be held 2-5 October, is still going to be an "exceptional event", even without the trio.

SWITCHFOOT AND UNDEROATH HEAD TO PARACHUTE 2010

Organisers this week confirmed that Switchfoot and Underoath will perform at New Zealand's Parachute Festival next year.

The 2010 festival celebrates Parachute's 20th year with performances from Hillsong United, Leeland, and Falling Up already announced.

Parachute 2010 will be held 29 January to 1 February in Hamilton NZ.

Several acts performing at the NZ festival are likely to appear at Parachute events in Australia around the same time.

RSJ ROCKS FLEVO

Rebecca St James this week performs at the Flevo Festival, one of Europe's largest outdoor Christian events, hosted annually in the Netherlands.

This year's festival will be staged at the Bussloo Gelderland recreation area near Apeldoorn from 20-23 August.

More than 10 000 concert-goers are expected to rock away the 72 hours of continuous music that features more than 60 international Christian bands and solo artists including Newsboys, Thousand Foot Krutch, Family Force 5, Fee, and the Parachute Band.

Following Flevo, Rebecca will release a new book release, Loved, in September and attend the premiere of Sarah's Choice for her first starring movie role in November.
